The Roses trainer is Joe McGeever, a familiar figure in local sports for a number of years . . . . Whitey Von Nieda is presently a Junior at Penn State . . . . Wilkes Barre's Billy Mock pitches for the Barons in the Eastern Pro baseball league . . . . Don Markward had offers from five different colleges after he graduated from Coatesville a few years ago, but the Army stepped in and broke up Don's ideas . . . . That's how he landed in pro ball . . . . Joe Proksa lives in Pittsburgh and it takes him five hours to drive here for every game . . . . He's the Coatesville Hi coach and while he bought a home for his family in Coatesville, he can't move into it at present . . . . Max Bishop he'd have to shoot all one handed shots last week because his new court pants were slightly roomy . . . . However, a safety pin came to his aid . . . . Casimir Ostrowski, Wilkes Barre forward, is the brother of Joe Ostrowski, who helped pitch Louisville to the pennant in the American Association this past diamond season . . . . Casimir is a former Scranton University court star who cavorted with Wilkes Barre in the Penn State circuit last winter .
